PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES
After a tremendously successful inaugural course in 2018, we are thrilled to present again the only course of its kind in the New York metropolitan area, and one of a select few in the world. Our first course sold out with participants from all over the world. This highly specialized course will introduce cutting edge surgical techniques and the latest advances in patient care, including transcanal endoscopic ear surgery, transnasal Eustachian tube surgery (including balloon dilation), and advances in endoscopic sinus and skull base surgery.

The target audience is regional and national otolaryngologists, including both general community otolaryngologists as well as subspecialists and academic practitioners. The course will be open to surgeons at all levels of training, from experienced attending physicians to residents-in-training. The course features an individualized registration structure to allow a 1-day otology-focused, 1-day rhinology focused, or 2-day comprehensive experience. Eustachian tube surgery will be included on both days.

We will feature influential leaders and internationally recognized experts as faculty, and we will target respected community otolaryngologists among our distinguished participants. Our surgical technique lectures will include very specific tips and pearls, including instruments, manufacturers, and devices to put new management concepts and the latest technologies in our course participants’ hands.

At the conclusion of this activity, participants will be better able to:

• Discuss the indications, techniques, and complications of endoscopic Eustachian tuboplasty.
• Discuss the indications, techniques, and complications of endoscopic sinus surgery.
• Discuss the indications, techniques, and complications of endoscopic ear surgery.
